"Crafting compelling legal strategies from complex facts lies at the heart of my practice."

Nick combines a technical background with extensive experience in intellectual property and commercial matters, from patent prosecution to litigation and trial. Whether enforcing patent rights or protecting consumers, he advances his clients' interests with an eye for detail and focus on concise, persuasive positions. Nick represents clients in patent, trademark, copyright, insurance, and class action cases, including antitrust and other commercial claims.

As a registered patent attorney, Nick has drafted and prosecuted cases primarily in the chemical, mechanical, and medical device fields. He also has advised clients on filing design patents, avoiding potential infringement, and leveraging litigation alternatives, such as post-grant proceedings.

Nick has additional experience in insurance litigation and coverage counseling, advising insurers regarding claims by commercial general liability policyholders. He has assisted in determining coverage for indemnity and defense cost issues, engaged in pre-litigation counseling, negotiated cost-share arrangements with multiple co-insurers and policyholders, and litigated coverage under property and homeowners policies.

Clients rely on Nick for his diversity of expertise and tenacity. Each case requires perspective as to what evidence to pursue and which arguments may prevail. While often seeking to negotiate settlements on favorable terms, he also is prepared to take cases to trial when necessary. "Helping my clients achieve their goals is a tremendous source of satisfaction for me."

Nick has extensive experience and a record of accomplishment evidenced by his handling of the following patent, class action, and insurance matters:
